Good Subject for Worry.
Folks who have nothing else to worry about might consider the statement of scientists that the sun will get cold in 12,000,000 years.—Des Moines (Ia.) Register.

Men's Rights.
Men's rights are a great deal of trouble to them. They assert them, and get them, and then they don't know what to do with them. A man's rights, half of them, are meant to give away. . . . The bentitude of your rights is, they are your benevolences. You can yield them, give them away. And the law of social unity is this law of assertion of a man's individuality, and the use of that individuality as a benevolence for those that are round about him.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Essay on Geese.
The following composition on geese was written, according to Capper's Weekly, by a schoolboy in St. Louis: "Geese is a heavy-set bird with a head on one side and a tail on the other. His feet is set so far back on his running gear that they nearly miss his body. Some geese is ganders and has a curl in his tail. Ganders don't lay or set. They just eat, loaf and go swimming. If I had to be a geese, I would rather be a gander. Geese do not give milk, but give eggs, but for me, give me liberty or give me death."

Jud Tunkins.
Jud Tunkins says the value of an education depends on whether a man uses it to increase his workin' capacity or only just to project around for a loafin' job.

OUR NEXT SERIAL STORY

The next serial story to be published in the Spanish-American "The Man Nobody Knows" by Holworthy Hall, is unique, original and startling. It is founded, not on mistaken, but on changed identity. A young man who had been a failure in life and as a result lost the girl he loved and the respect of his friends, enlisted in the war. Wounds so wrecked his face that surgeons were compelled to mold him a new set of features. This suggested an assumed name and changed identity. He returned home a stranger, announced that the man who had bore his old name had died a hero's death in France and then set about to make good. Surprising complications ensue, especially regarding the girl.

The novel is elaborated from a short story by the same author which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Each installment challenges the reader's interest and keeps him on the anxious seat. No one can tell exactly what the climax will be until the final chapter. As it is so different from anything else and so meritorious, we think it ideal for serial publication in the Spanish-American.

Watch the paper and start with the first serial.

DEATH OF

MRS. SEVERINO MARTINEZ

We have just learned of the death of Mrs. Guadalupe M. Martinez, wife of the Hon. Severino Martinez, of Black Lakes, which occurred Sunday, August 29th at Taos, New Mexico, where she had gone for medical assistance. Mrs. Martinez was sick but eight days and her death was very unexpected. She was laid to rest in the ancient cemetery at Taos, New Mexico. Mrs. Martinez was the mother of Doroteo M. Martinez of northeast of Roy and she and her husband used to live in the Carrizo neighborhood. Mr. Martinez is a candidate for presidential elector on the Democratic Ticket, and his many friends sympathize with him and the family in their deep bereavement.
